MOB ACTION HAS SUPPORT OF GOVERNOR

Hanging Kidnappers to Trees "Fine Lesson" to American Nation

SHERIFF LIES IN SERIOUS CONDITION

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP).—Frank approval from Governor James Rolph, Jr., and other state officials for giving "a fine lesson" to the whole nation" eased the tense nerves of this normally peaceful town today, scene of the lynching last night of John M. Holmes and Thomas H. Thummond, confessed kidnappers.

"They'll learn they can't kidnap in this state," were the ringing words from the Governor in Sacramento. "If anyone is arrested for the good job I'll pardon them all."

Such was the assurance from Rolph as the tense town came to a realization of the seriousness of summary justice dealt out in pioneer fashion by the mob that stormed the jail and seized Holmes and Thummond.

ON THE PARK TREES
In St. James Park, across the street from the jail, the victims were strung up to separate trees while thousands of men, women and children, looking on in carnival spirit, cheered with a lustiness that could be heard for blocks.

The Governor went beyond giving his approval by saying he would like to release all San Quentin and Folsom Penitentiary inmates serving sentences for kidnapping into the custody of "those fine, patriotic San Jose citizens who know how to handle such a situation."

NOT SAFE IN JAIL
"No kidnapper will ever be turned loose or pardoned while I am Governor," was another statement by the Governor, who added that "kidnappers will learn they're not safe even in our penitentiaries."

The final figures for Mr. Sexsmith and E. A. Gilroy, Independent, after distribution of second choice for H. A. Ireland, Labor, was: Sexsmith, 1,426; Gilroy, 1,188.

PROGRAMME NOT CHANGED

Treasury Official Hurries Home With Instructions to Carry On

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP).—With instructions from President Roosevelt to keep the currency program going unchanged, Acting Secretary Henry Morgenthau of the Treasury hastened back to Washington today, and another high financial official headed toward Warm Springs.

Other developments of the day include: Morgenthau said $2,748,000 of excess governmental funds had been invested in Government bonds last week, but declined to give comparable figures for such activities over previous periods.

A NEW ADVISER
Tom K. Smith, a St. Louis banker, accepted a post as adviser to the Treasury on banking questions.

Morgenthau disclosed a departmental committee was preparing recommendations on income tax legislation for the House of Representatives ways and means committee.

The price for newly-mined domestic gold was held unchanged at $37.70 an ounce.

FIND GLUT OF WHEAT INCREASING

Exporting Nations in London Session Told of Decrease in Demand

FRANCE PLANNING TO TAX EXCESS ACREAGE

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—That the glut of world wheat is greater and the demand less than anticipated three months ago, when an international wheat pact was formed, was brought out today at a long session of the World Wheat Commission.

An optimistic note was struck with the announcement that France considered taxing excessive acreage, but for the most part an exhaustive study of wheat conditions brought no cheer to representatives of the major wheat exporting nations.

European countries committed themselves, under last summer's agreement, designed to equalize production and demand, and thereby to keep up prices, not to increase production.

FRANCE PLANNING TAX
In this connection the twenty-eight experts and representatives forming the commission were told a law of about $15 for each acre in excess of the average of the past few years was being discussed favorably in influential French circles.

After hearing a report by Andrew Cairns, of Canada, the conference secretary, regarding his tour of European wheat exporting countries, several delegates expressed the opinion international wheat market conditions were "not at all promising," because of problem of over-production was still unsettled.

"There is still too much wheat," said one delegate in summarizing. Continued on Page 2, Column 1

MUST GET INTO DIRECT TOUCH

Baldwin Emphasizes Requirement Procedure to Solve Disarmament Problem

LONDON, Nov. 27 (CP).—Stanley Baldwin, British Prime Minister, tonight told the House of Commons, Great Britain, France and Italy, all must get in direct touch with Germany in efforts to settle the disarmament question.

Mr. Baldwin was speaking in debate on a Labor amendment to the Speech from the Throne affecting foreign policy.

The disarmament situation, he said, presented very great difficulties and three possible ends: First, disarmament of all nations to the level of existing German armaments; second, limitation of armaments to a point excluding all large offensive weapons, while leaving the means of defense; third, complete disarmament of Germany to that point; third, competition in arms.

BRITISH OPINION
The third alternative, he declared, must never be allowed to become effective. He emphasized it must be the opinion of the British Government that any country should be kept in a permanent position of armament inferiority.

He said it must be hoped Germany would change and become pacific when she resumes her place as a partner in arms deliberations.

Cabinet Confirmed By Electors Says Premier Pattullo

Hon. John Hart, Byron Johnson and Herbert Anscomb Given Ovation Following Public Speeches—Rev. Robert Connell Issues Statement

"I FEEL very gratified that the electors have chosen to endorse the Liberal platform and confirm the new Cabinet," Premier T. D. Pattullo declared before several hundred persons who crowded the Liberal headquarters last night to hear the leader of the party and follow the election results.

"It is very evident that by the return of two Liberals in Vancouver Centre and two in Victoria that the electorate has confirmed the present Government by four to two. It will strengthen our hand in the representations we shall make to Ottawa."

TREMBLOUS TASK
"Mr. Anscomb (who had previously spoken) has endeavored to impress you with the seriousness of the problem that faces this administration. The portent of his remarks is not generally understood, but we have a tremendous task ahead of us and will waste no time."

Liberals Elected To Two Seats in Vancouver Centre

Hon. G. M. Sloan, Attorney-General, and G. S. Wismer Win by Substantial Margins Over C.C.F. Candidates in Deferred Election—Conservative Team Runs in Third Place

VANCOUVER, Nov. 27 (CP).—Hon. Gordon Sloan, Attorney-General, and Gordon Wismer, took Vancouver Centre into the Liberal fold in today's deferred election for the British Columbia Legislature, winning the two-seat constituency for the Government.

Mr. Sloan, who at thirty-five years of age, is the youngest Attorney-General British Columbia has ever had, thus came through the test of winning a place in the Legislature, which has faced him since he took office with other members of Premier T. D. Pattullo's Government on November 15.

The Liberal candidates ran up their majorities in the west end of their constituency, but in the east end it was a neck-and-neck battle.

CHIEF OPPOSITION
The C.C.F. candidates, W. M. LeFaux and J. B. Taylor, who gave the Liberals their chief opposition, polled 10,373 votes against 13,561 for Sloan and Wismer.

Two candidates running as Conservatives, but without official endorsement, got a sizeable vote, especially in the more western polls, picking up with late returns to a total of 2,776 between them. They are D. H. Kent and A. de B. McPhillips.

Is Closing Canals to Navigation

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 (CP).—Navigation through the St. Lawrence canal will be halted officially on Thursday night, according to an order issued tonight by the Department of Railways and Canals.

The order read: "On account of abnormal weather conditions, and the difficulties and danger of continuing operations, it is found necessary to close all canals from Lake Ontario to Montreal not later than 11:59 p.m. on the 30th of November."

While official instructions showed the canals might be opened for three more full days, indications here, tonight, were forty-eight hours might see the system closed for the winter.

NO ADVOCATE OF STATE MEDICINE

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (CP).—"It will be a long time before we have state medicine in this country so far as the Dominion is concerned," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett told the Royal Canadian College of Physicians and Surgeons at their annual banquet, here, tonight. He could not conceive of a new and expanding country fostering "that state of mind or developing a system of state medicine for the nation as a whole."

What the provinces might do within their own jurisdiction was a different matter, and difficult to ascertain, the Premier added.

The Prime Minister assured the gathering the Dominion Government would lend its assistance to the extent of its power in those efforts which the Dominion and the physicians had in common—the happiness and the health of the people.

Serpent Vouched For by Three More Witnesses

Three men saw Amy Cadboro, yesterday, and they saw it at the same time—4:10 o'clock in the afternoon, when there was a good light. They are clear-eyed, reliable, truth-loving citizens. A Colanist representative talked with two of them—T. Sparks, wharfinger at Rith's Pier Two, and Arthur Bradshaw, assistant wharfinger. The third man, R. Saunders, was not seen.

Mr. Bradshaw, who is confident it was the same object that so many others have seen in close proximity to Victoria, stated that he was first attracted to a "wake" crossing from the direction of Victoria Harbor past the end of Pier One. He thought for the moment that a steamer had "gone by," but seeing no smoke, he called to Mr. Sparks, and started running for the end of the pier. By the time he reached it the "wake" was clearly defined for some 300 feet off the dock and 20 feet of something that was travelling about 30 miles an hour was going towards the breakwater.

Mr. Sparks, who was close behind Mr. Bradshaw, corroborated what his co-worker said, and added the "head" must have been close to the water, for there was a curl of wave some distance from the part we could plainly see arched above the surface. The tail part was submerged entirely. It had the appearance of a great log pushing through the water. "No fooling, there's something strange out in the strait," he concluded.

EXTORTION NOTE DEMANDS $25,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27 (AP).—Rulon C. McMurrin, vice-president of the Los Angeles Rock & Gravel Company, reported to police today receipt of an anonymous extortion note demanding $25,000 for the safety of his family.

The note was left on the doorstep of his home, warning him to "watch the papers" to see where to leave the money to prevent a "disaster" to his family.

McMurrin, his wife and two small daughters, aged six and three years, were placed under guard.

Threats of European Disruption Detailed In Descriptive Talk

Sherwood Eddy, Author and Lecturer, Thrills Audiences With Vivid Address on Politics Abroad—Whole Country Torn With Strife

SIXTEEN hundred persons from all walks of life crowded into Metropolitan United Church, Sunday afternoon, to hear the eminent author and lecturer, Sherwood Eddy, tell of Germany's reign of terror against the Jews and its gigantic war-like mobilization under Dictator Hitler, of Germany, torn with civil strife and hanging in the balance, an ever present threat of plunging the world into another great war, and of the tremendous social experiment of Soviet Russia which stands for justice, often cruel, and which gives no liberty. To an equally large gathering at night, Dr. Eddy lectured on the question "Dare We Be Christian?"

Under the title "Three Dictators: Hitler, Dolfus, Stalin," Dr. Eddy gave an electrifying address to the afternoon audience in which he described conditions in Germany, Austria and Soviet Russia, as seen by him in recent extended visits.

SAYS WAR LIKELY SOON
Hitler, a man with apparently no great qualities, only having the gift of eloquence, is desperately striving to save his country, and promises national deliverance, the speaker said. But Hitler's methods are such that war is likely, soon. Tremendous armed and trained forces are everywhere in Germany, and it is the country's wish to be the power it once was. Dr. Eddy went on to assert that the Allies have not lived up to disarmament agreements as written into the Versailles Treaty, and Germany is indignant. Reparations have been paid in white and the younger generation does not feel itself responsible for the war. Although no great numbers of guns and ammunition pieces are held by the Germans, Hitler has many factories ready and waiting to turn them out in wholesale lots, along with great volumes of poison gas, at a moment's notice, the speaker pointed out.

RIGID CENSORSHIP
A rigid censorship is in force there, and the atrocities suffered by the Jews are little known. Dr. Eddy charged that even a strain of Semite blood in an ancestor was sufficient to place one under "all the restrictions applying to the Jews."

"Hitler is an inspired fanatic, imbued with ideals that to most seem tragically reactionary and brutal," he said. "Germany is not a nation being socialized, but a people being militarized. This country is a pathological case today, and will allow no approach."

In Dolfus, Austria has a vest-pocket Hitler, who is, at present, in power with the aid of the Roman Catholics and the older gentry, he declared. Today the mighty atom that is Dictator Dolfus is strong, and he has battered on the stupidities of the Nazis, German and Austrian, but tomorrow he might be swept away, the speaker pointed out. Austria is sitting unhelpfully.

Delivery Horse Now Fine Hunter

FROM the every day existence of a delivery horse to the distinction of being a prize jumping steed is the gap bridged by Earl, a five-year-old chestnut hunter purchased by Timothy Eaton, of Eaton Hall Farm, one year ago. The horse made rapid strides under Mr. Eaton's training and is today one of his favorite mounts.

have accomplished so much and come so far, Dr. Eddy said. Speaking on morality, the lecturer denied that the country of Communism was a "cesspool of immorality." Although the standards in Russia are not our standards, they are strictly enforced, the speaker asserted.

BRED IN SCHOOLS
Only a small part of the population belongs to the Communist party, which is strongly supported by the youth. Communism is bred in the schools, and denies the existence of the Deity. Churches, however, are allowed to open their doors for worship on Saturday nights and Sunday mornings, and many millions attend all over Russia, he said.

Much has been done in the last fifteen years, and Russia will be forced to continue the struggle for ten more years before "good times" can be expected. But this country will not allow itself to be imposed upon by Japan, Dr. Eddy declared.

CAN LEARN MUCH
Stalin believes in equal rights for all, and his country has done more for recognition of all races and colors than any other in the world. The speaker said Anglo-Saxons can learn much in this respect. Dr. Eddy found the intolerance of race and color by the Anglo-Saxon people, held up to ridicule in Russia, China and Japan.

Nine-tenths of the people of Russia are better off under the bureaucracy led by Stalin, than they were under the Czarist regime. Under no other system could they

COUNTRESS GETS TERM IN JAIL

Sentenced for Theft From Proprietor of School for Girls

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The Countess Grace de Benque, fifty-eight, today was sentenced to prison for two to four years for the theft of $5,000 from Miss Louise Maret, co-proprietress of a fashionable school for girls.

They were convicted of taking the money from Miss Maret, after having her "arrested" by a "policeman" while she and Gormley were parked in an automobile on a lonely road.

The pseudo policeman, identified during the trial as Charles A. May, testified Gormley had paid him $250 to pose as an officer.

At the trial it was developed Gormley told Miss Maret the officer could be bribed for $15,000, and Miss Maret paid $5,000 before taking up the case with authorities.

TIMELY ARRIVAL SAVES A FAMILY

Daring Skill of Government Physician Cheats Death in Far North

LAKE HARBOR, Hudson Bay (CP).—Timely arrival of medical aid and the daring skill of a Government physician rescued an Eskimo family from certain death at the lonely Arctic trading post on Hudson Strait. The story is just another of the many tales of heroism and medical achievement in the north.

Stricken with influenza and internal poisoning which baffled diagnosis, the family had battled death against the odds. A life was in the balance when the St. Nasco, Hudson Bay trade ship, arrived on her annual patrol of company.

PUTS A CHECK ON THE MOVIES

Marie Dressler and Eddie Cantor Members of Guiding Authority

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed the code placing the United States motion picture industry under the N.R.A. tonight, with appointment of an authority to guide the business and ban "excessive salaries" during a ninety-day period.

He named Marie Dressler, the old stage and screen trouper from Coalinga, Ont., and Comedian Eddie Cantor as members of the code authority. He accepted the recommendation of General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator against Federal censorship; but named A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University, as a member of the code authority to watch the observance by the industry of its own censorship rules.

Without naming the limit of salaries, the President called for a full report, within ninety days, on "salaries or other emoluments" in the industry, both as to artists and as to executives and their families.

SOLVES RIDDLE OF QUICKSANDS

Famous Swiss Water Diviner Aids in Locating Subterranean Stream

PARIS (RUP).—The riddle of the famous Mont St. Michel quicksands has, it is believed, been solved by Abbe Mermet, famous Swiss water diviner.

Abbe Mermet was prospecting for water about fifty miles from the Mont St. Michel, when he came upon a spring at a depth of 230 feet, which he said would furnish 100 gallons a minute.

The spring, he said, came from a subterranean stream 600 feet below the surface, and would furnish 100 gallons a minute. This stream itself was derived from a subterranean river at a depth of between 1,100 feet and 1,300 feet, providing close upon 3,000 gallons a minute.

SAYS POLICE PUT WORDS IN MOUTH

Dr. Alice Wynkoop Reported to Have Repudiated Confession of Murder

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP).—Dr. Alice Wynkoop was reported by her attorney, tonight, to have repudiated from her cot in the country jail hospital, the statement that she shot her daughter-in-law, Rheta, as the girl lay dead on a surgical operating table.

Police and prosecutors expressed amazement at the reported retraction, pointing out that the sixty-two-year-old woman physician had been emphatic in declaring she would not do so. However, they said the repudiation would have no effect on the state's case.

Wynkoop replied: "No, I didn't shoot anyone, when I asked her whether she had shot Rheta," Attorney Frank Tyrrell said. "She told me the police had put the words of the statement into her mouth, after they had questioned her for hours."

"Did your grandfather live to a green old age?" she asked. "I would say so! He was swindled three times after he was seventy."

FRIENDSHIP IS REVEALED

New Book Tells of Letters by Lord Oxford to Widow Friend

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (CP).—A special cable to The New York Times from London, today, says an unsuspected friendship between the Earl of Oxford and Asquith and the young widow of an army major will be revealed with publication of a new book, "H. H. A. Letters from Lord Oxford to a Friend."

The woman is Mrs. Hilda Harrison, now living quietly in the country near Oxford. She is still pretty and vivacious, and is full of memories of the statesman, who corresponded with her devotedly for ten years, The Times cable says.

Desmond McCarthy, who writes the introduction to the book, says "she stood apart from the main currents of Lord Asquith's life." Her husband was killed in France in 1917, shortly after Lord Asquith's eldest son, Raymond, met death, and possibly the coincidence drew the two together.

REMARKABLE LETTERS

She frequently was a guest of the Asquiths at their country house. He wrote in one letter, "There is nothing in the world I long for more than that you should be happy and that I should have more of a share than anyone else in making you so." But neither Lord Asquith's wife nor their closest friends knew of the remarkable letters passing between them.

Covering the stormy years of 1915 to 1925, the letters evidently were a relief to Lord Asquith when, as he confessed to Mrs. Harrison in 1926, "I am encompassed with all sorts and sizes of problems, worries and cares."

WORKERS STRIKE AT STOCK YARD

Movement of Animals at Chicago Crippled When Union Men Walk Out

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP).—The Union Stockyards, largest in the world, tonight was glutted with the usual heavy Monday receipts, because of a strike of yard workers seeking higher wages.

The United States Department of Agriculture, which generally issues the daily quotations at 11 a.m. (Central standard time), was unable to collect data upon which to base quotations until late this afternoon.

Starting with the walkout last night of 800 members of the Live-stock Handlers Union, the force of strikers was swelled to around 8,000 men when two other closely-affiliated unions joined forces and suspended operations.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS

Victoria, in giving a mixed verdict of its sentiment regarding provincial politics, has endorsed the Government's choice of a Cabinet Minister to represent this constituency. Mr. John Hart has been elected. It is a personal disappointment, no doubt, that he did not lead the polls. That honor goes to Mr. Byron Johnson, a newcomer to politics, and whose vote shows undoubted popularity in the community. Mr. Harbert Ansonbom as so many expected has been elected, gaining third place, and the fourth member-elect is Mr. Robert Connell, running under C.C.F. colors. Whatever operated in the minds of the people in going to the polls, one thing is certain, namely, that Premier Pattullo's choice of a Cabinet Minister has been confirmed, and it is a matter of congratulation for the people that Mr. Hart should have had previous experience in the task.

Mr. Byron Johnson, who led the poll, and led it handsomely, is well known in business and sporting circles. Few men have entered the political arena here for the first time, untied, and unknown to a considerable element of the population, and have made the same rapid gains in public estimation as Mr. Johnson. In the manner in which he has been accorded support he has both a great opportunity, and a great responsibility as well. He has to live up to the expectations of his supporters, and there is no need to remind him that this can best be done by an assiduous process of graduation in political life; in other words, by broadening the understanding by a close study of political affairs.

Mr. Harbert Ansonbom is one of the most popular of our citizens as has been so handsomely demonstrated by yesterday's vote. It is quite obvious that he received the support from every element of thought in the community, save only the ranks of the radicals. There has never been a contest in this city quite the same as that of yesterday, in that the choice was a perplexing one for the people. The success won by Mr. Ansonbom indicates the manner in which he has stamped his personality on the city, both in its business and social relationships, and because of the laurels he won while in the office of Mayor. He will be an active member of the Legislature. He is one who regards politics as a continuous school of education, and it may be expected that his latest opportunity to render service to the community, and to the province as well, will be taken advantage of to the full.

Mr. John Hart, who ran second on the poll, has been singled out since his appointment as Cabinet Minister as a subject of attacks, especially during the last stages of the campaign. Those attacks were on the basis of his former record as a Cabinet Minister. Evidently the people were not impressed with the justice of the criticism, or else there is a belief that to have a Cabinet Minister representing the capital is essential to sympathetic consideration of Victoria's needs. However the public viewed his candidature they endorsed him, and Mr. Hart can now concentrate his attentions on the financial problems of British Columbia.

The election of Mr. Robert Connell is more a tribute to the fact that he is so well known and so highly respected than because he espoused the policies of the C.C.F. This is an interpretation of his victory that may be disputed. However, had the latter fact been the main cause of his success it is undoubted that his colleagues on the same ticket who did, for the supporters of Socialism generally stand solidly behind the candidates to whom they give their allegiance. There is this to be said on behalf of Mr. Connell, namely, that he carried on a more constructive campaign than his colleagues on the same ticket; he never engaged in a campaign of abuse of those who differed with his political viewpoints, and in every way he showed far greater restraint than the other C.C.F. candidates.

With the election of the two Liberals, Messrs. Gordon Sloan and Gordon Wismer, in Vancouver Centre, the Government has still further increased its majority in the Legislature. It has no reason for any chagrin whatever as a result of the polls held yesterday. In fact the outcome of the two constituencies is an endorsement of Mr. Pattullo, and more particularly as evidencing appreciation of the character of the Cabinet he has selected. It would have been a bad blow to the Liberal Administration if either of the Cabinet Ministers who were candidates yesterday had been defeated. They have triumphed, and four of the six seats, here and in Vancouver Centre, are now ranged on the side of the Government. Premier Pattullo can go ahead with his plans confident in having received a very substantial mandate from the people.

TEACHERS AND SCHOOL BOARD

The Teachers' Federation of Winnipeg, while declaring emphatically that it does not approve of members of the teaching profession taking part in School Board elections and asserting also that it is not sponsoring or supporting candidates for the School Board, nevertheless entered upon the political stage in a certain source by issuing a questionnaire which will be placed in the hands of every aspirant to School Board honors.

The questions are eleven in number and the candidate is invited to answer yes or no in each case. He is told that involved or wordy answers are not necessary. Several of the questions, however, are of a broad and general character and the candidate could readily answer them in the desired affirmative without committing himself to anything very serious. For example, he is invited to say that every child is entitled to physical education to develop a healthy body, that all children are entitled to a "proper" share of the teacher's time and attention, that teachers should have a "reasonable secure" tenure, that the three R's are not "enough" for intelligent citizenship, that every child should be "offered" a full year's schooling.

Some of the questions, on the other hand, will need careful scrutiny by the conscientious candidate. What reply is he to make to the proposition that after unemployment relief a city's most important responsibility is free public education? A balanced budget is a civic responsibility of some importance. How many candidates will say yes to the proposition that the primary concern of the trustees is not financial expediency but the interest of the school child? No doubt the more cautious candidates will say that trustees who do not pay sufficient heed to financial expediency are likely to be brought up short by financial necessity. Question number nine invites the candidate to agree that the public school budget must be based on the educational needs of the children, a broad statement that obviously requires some qualification to the effect that educational "needs" are to be considered in close relation to the length of the public purse.

Candidates are further asked to subscribe to the doctrine that all children who are handicapped, physically or otherwise, are "entitled to class work adapted to their needs and ability," and that a suitable training in handicrafts should be provided. The former of these involves an old question as to the amount of money available for the doubtful experiment of furnishing instruction to those who are unable to profit by it. The latter brings up a matter much discussed in Victoria a few years ago when an attempt was made to induce the ratepayers to sanction the establishment of a quite unnecessary and costly technical school to be supported out of the public funds.

INFLATION AND GOLD

President Roosevelt of the United States is fighting very substantial and almost imponderable forces in his financial policy. His belief, as expressed by his course of action, would seem to be that he can bring about stabilization in terms of commodities. There is another school, whose belief has never weakened, that such stabilization is only possible in terms of gold. That was the majority opinion held at the World Economic Conference. That gathering proved a failure since President Roosevelt, because of the experiments in which he is engaged, would not sanction the linking together of the pound, the franc and the dollar on a gold basis. He is pursuing his own course and the consequence is that while the world price of commodities is rising in terms of dollars and pounds it is declining slowly in terms of gold.

In the processes as decreed by President Roosevelt there is an opinion in some quarters that the world is getting further and further away from a gold standard. We doubt this, the more especially on the ground that the financial policy of the United States has not nearly as great a world influence on the monetary situation as some people think. Among bankers generally, and even among bankers in the United States, there remains the persistent belief that a return to the gold standard is inevitable. The fact that such opposition is developing to the Rooseveltian policies indicates a growing public belief that these are operating from false economic premises and that the conclusion, therefore, must prove erroneous. The probability is that the doctrine of the N.R.A. will hasten the day when the world will stabilize currency on a gold basis, perhaps not as in the past, but in a measure which will again make the precious metal the universal measure of values.

SNOW MAGIC

Have I rubbed Aladdin's lamp.
 That I'm privileged to see
 In this sparkling fairyland
 Row on row of white-garbed trees?

Much more beautiful by far
 Than any of his gems are these
 Graceful forms all clad in white,
 Bending, swaying in the breeze.

Let me linger here apace,
 Will you snatch this from me now?
 I can bear reality,
 Gentle, you have taught me how!

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.—Shakespeare.

Notwithstanding the philosophical writings of the wisest of men, wisdom does not always abide beneath the thatch on a hoary head. The island of Newfoundland is one of the oldest of British possessions on the American continent, but the folly of its rulers has brought it into a condition practically of bankruptcy. Newfoundland has repeatedly refused to join the Dominion of Canada, and Newfoundland has practically passed into the hands of a receiver. The people of Newfoundland therefore have found out "that the glorious privilege of being independent" involves great responsibilities. Also the independence of Newfoundland has absolved Canadians from serious responsibilities. Newfoundlanders have lost their independence because, notwithstanding repeated warnings, they refused to live within their means.

Newfoundlanders justified their extravagance by "pointing with pride" to the magnitude of their natural resources. The elected rulers of British Columbia and of the three neighboring Western Canadian provinces also have repeatedly justified their extravagance by "pointing with pride" in a somewhat arrogant manner to the magnitude of their natural resources. For years the people of the Western Canadian provinces cherished a grievance against the Dominion government because under the terms of Confederation the federal government remained in control of some of the provincial natural resources. A tremendous agitation developed and was carried on until the provinces were placed in control of their natural heritage.

With so much apparent latent wealth at their command, the Western provinces proceeded to indulge in an orgy of extravagance. When Newfoundland was at the end of its resources, it appealed to the Canadian government and the Imperial government to come to its assistance and tide it over its difficulties. The two governments did that; but the service had merely a temporary effect. Newfoundland has at least temporarily forfeited the right of self-government and representatives of the Imperial government will administer its affairs.

There are rumors and rumblings from Ottawa that the Canadian Western provinces are in danger of finding themselves in a position similar to that of Newfoundland. The Canadian Western provinces have repeatedly gone to the Dominion government and demanded "better terms." The provisions of the Act of Union have repeatedly been revised in favor of the Western provinces, and like Oliver Twist, the Western provinces have repeatedly demanded more. Ottawa has intimated that there are limits to the resources even of the Dominion government. Ottawa has pointed out that it has spent millions of dollars in tiding the provinces over their difficulties, millions for the relief of the unemployed and of the Western grain growers. The Western provinces are heavily indebted to the central government, and there seems to be a dim prospect of the "liquidation" of those debts. The Western provinces are contemplating more demands upon the federal government, and the government, which is representative of the Eastern as well as of the Western provinces, has intimated that the time has come for what poker gamblers call a "show down."

In this critical situation there are two sides of the question to be considered. On the one side there is the position of the taxpayers of the East to be considered. On the other side there is the position of the tax-absorbers of the West to be considered. Money cannot be picked up on the wayside, neither can it be made out of paper. Ottawa therefore has intimated that it is responsible for its expenditures to the taxpayers of the East as well as to the beneficiaries of the West. There is an obvious difficulty there, and it must receive serious consideration.

The governments of the Western provinces have been told in order to be the beneficiaries of further federal consideration they must demonstrate that they are trying to bring order out of the confusion in their financial affairs and that they have taken measures to balance their provincial accounts by reducing expenditures—for further increases of taxation are out of the question. Taxation already is so heavy as to have a paralyzing effect upon business. The late government of British Columbia was making what appeared to be a sincere effort to curb extravagance when it was defeated and gave place to the new government. The weakness of the late government was that it delayed too long in initiating reforms. The new government is fully informed as to the financial situation, and will have no excuse to offer it if it proceeds in the old unheeding way before the Premier makes the usual pilgrimage to Ottawa for the purpose of making another demand for better terms.

There is one ray of hope perceptible in the cloud of gloom which has enshrouded Canada from East to West as well as the rest of the world. There are signs of a general revival of business within all the Dominions of the British Empire. Within our domain at least the depression appears to have run its course. The provinces will be all right if they accept and put into force counsels of wisdom and set their houses in order. Admonitions from Ottawa are timely and justifiable.

'Slams and Salaams'

By R. T. M.

Yesterday (as most of you will agree) was Monday—and, as Monday is generally a dour, liverish sort of day, it was quite annoying to note that the highways and by-ways seemed so unnecessarily plugged up with automobiles that were positively pushed out-of-shape by their huge loads of humans.

And those tight-packed humans all seemed to be chuckling or leering about something very funny. We had no idea why. In fact we felt that such unreasonably gaily, on a cryptic day like Monday was a bit revolting. So we kept wondering (quite morosely, and not a little enviously) why were all these town-folk grinning, and looking so disgustingly merry—and why were the drivers of those over-loaded cars continually twisting their heads round, to converse so flippantly and affably with the occupants—and we could make nought of it. . . . and for a while, we were completely baffled.

Presently, however, one of those seemingly futile "merry-go-rounds" eased into the curb, and the passengers began levering themselves onto the street with their elbows, knees, canes and umbrellas—in fact I don't quite know how some of them reached the street at all, without the aid of a small derrick. Nevertheless they did—and then only to fall into a stickier sort of jam—or what would you call those hectic clumps of people who were clattering up the down-town pavements, yesterday, and looking so important with all their beasty chuckling?

At last, though, we began to sense that mixed in with all this unworldly jubilation, was a definite odor of great secrecy! Dear, yes! There were many whisperings—and not a few sly winks. Something very deep and mysterious was evidently going on—but what on earth could it be?

Good heavens! Had somebody discovered a platinum mine, in the very heart of Victoria? Was somebody recklessly handing out free tickets for the opening night of the Crinson, West, Vest, Chest—(they've changed the name, recently, haven't they?) . . . or, had the sea-serpent been captured, and if so, was a ball about to be given at Government House in its honor?

Undoubtedly, it was all very puzzling. But there's a clearing-up of most mysteries, and this came when a beaming, and evidently very proud-with-herself lady announced, "Well, that's that! And with my vote, he's bound to get in, with a vast majority!"

Of course, of course! It was election day—the day of much hokey! No wonder those people were looking so queer and mysterious. And no wonder the drivers of those "vote-choked" chariots were twisting their heads off in order to ingratiate themselves with those that looked so smug and chummy, in the back! For those drivers had presumably noticed how "fags" (you've noticed how "fags" are packed—yes?) . . . certainly, those drivers were silently praying that all their "fags" would vote emphatically for the candidate on whose behalf their (driver's) car was so heartily "at disposal"—which is just a mite "pouffé" and chicanery!

But, hooray, hooray! Election day! And as we've already intimated—the day of supreme hokey! Every body in a dither. Nobody knowing quite who to vote for—but one and all positive that whoever they voted for, no good could possibly come of it! That's a grand situation. But it's the way this Province has been for the last thirty years. Some day that situation will change. But not in our time. It will take the British Columbia populace at least two hundred years to wake up to the fact that there's no reason at all why this Province (which is as resourcefully wealthy as any in the world) should be practically insolvent, to-day—except that it is all due to years and years of rotten government . . . and when they awake to that, it will take another two hundred and fifty years for them to decide what's to be done about it—and when they do that, it will be too late to do anything—so, unless somebody gets busy pretty soon, it's going to be a trifle awkward—eh?

However—the fact remains that yesterday was election day, and therefore, very memorable. And that's a lie, too—because election days are no longer exciting or even mildly amusing.

Twenty-five years ago, they were positively volcanic! By 6 o'clock on one of those former and definitely eruptive evenings of Election, the whole town would be in uproar. Crowds bustled and belloved outside the newspaper offices. Oaths and vile epithets mingled with the shrill vehemence of welfare-workers who were doing their noble best to pipe the bedlam down. The "pals" of successful candidates thought nothing of popping opposition "pals" on the back, as the final returns of their special "hero" took a flurry on a window in the adjacent and bulletin-mad "Colonist."

Bottles blackened the air. Blood was accordingly cheap. Horses went crazy with fright and chewed people's ears off. Cops cowered blackly—and later got beautifully light with the rest of the electorate. And through it all, the women stayed home and wondered whether "their Arry" would spend the night at home; in the hospital, or in the village "hoose-gow!"

Ah, indeed! Deep were the bayings, and crimson were the hostilities and "exchanges" on the "eve of election," many years ago! But that had to be, or so it seemed—and then, how oft (and as a fitting climax) was "Major Sproggitt" (successful candidate for "Buge-war" riding) returned to his benevolent but tremulous spouse as 4 in the morning . . . undoubtedly a hero . . . but as undoubtedly (and alcoholically) deaf to the wild, eulogistic throatings of his frenzied "electors," who carried him, shoulder-high; heavily snoring; and "toes up," on a shutter?

Humph! And it's a cinch that nothing like that happened last night in Victoria. Which is all to the good—but, as it was all so girlish and everything, we may as well shut up about it, and just leave a space, here, (for I'll be hanged if I'm going to stick around all night waiting to see if Mr. "X" or Mr. "Y" rang the jolly old welkin!) . . . no . . . we can't waste time like that, so we'll just leave a space, like this . . .

which you can now fill with the names of successful candidates, and say whatever you think about them. (E.G. . . . If Ansonbom gets in, you can write his name down, and then write, "Bully for Herb," or "Blast his eyes!"—all in accordance with your special likes or dislikes—get me? Good.)

A DENIAL

Sir,—In reply to your announcement of Sunday regarding my intention of seeking office as school trustee, I wish to state that this statement is without foundation, as I have no such intention. I may also say that I have no connections with the club mentioned. I also wish to express my thanks to those people and friends who have asked me personally to stand, but I do not see my way clear to do so.

C.R.C. AND VICTORIA STATION

Sir,—May the undersigned beg a small space in your excellent publication with regard to the recent resolution before the City Council in the matter of the local radio station being hooked up to the Canadian Radio Commission releases. While a real modern local radio station would be a decided asset, why try and push this additional expense upon the taxpayers of the country during these strenuous times, when the commission already has a station in Vancouver? Another Commission station in Victoria would be an unnecessary luxury. But what is needed is more power and modern equipment for the present Commission station in Victoria.

If it comes to pass that C.R.C. programmes should be broadcast through a Victoria station, it is hoped that such releases would be more successful and efficient than that of the services from Christ Church Cathedral and several of the recent election meetings have been.

A good many taxpayers in this city would be very interested to know just why City Council influence is being used for what is a purely private business enterprise.

Fast Cargo Ships
May Be Required
For Naval Needs

A naval correspondent of The Liverpool Journal of Commerce calls attention of recent proposals put forward in Japan for the building of eighteen-knot cargo ships with the aid of a subsidy and the previous situation in that country for the building of seventeen-knot tankers.

The correspondent questions the commercial advantages of such high speeds in cargo ships or tankers, and suggests that the desire for high speed can be justified only on the basis of military requirements.

CONDITIONS IN
ORIENT BETTERConsul-General Sees Better
Feeling Between Japan and China

"Our relations with China have improved considerably, and I might even say that they were more strained before the Manchurian trouble than they are today," declared Hon. Teyemasa Tokugawa, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Canada from Japan, when interviewed, yesterday, at the Empress Hotel, where he is staying, on his way back to Ottawa.

"Conditions generally in the Orient are improving," said Mr. Tokugawa. "In Manchukuo, reforms have taken place rapidly; railways are being constructed and modern cities are rising in this land which is being reborn. The reconstruction work is being carried on by Manchukians, for whom a great volume of employment has been thus created, and the expectation is that this country will provide a new market for other countries."

TRADE PROGRESSING

Mr. Tokugawa also stated that Japanese industry and trade had made steady progress during recent years, and that, although exchange rates have been favorable for the exportation of Japanese goods to foreign markets, there is something more fundamental, particularly the achievements of Japanese technical experts, that has been constantly improving industrial production and adding to the integrity of Japanese business institutions.

Accompanied by his daughter and by Hon. Ko Ishi, Japanese consul at Vancouver, Mr. Tokugawa, yesterday, paid his respects to Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Pordham Johnson, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Premier of British Columbia, and Senator and Mrs. J. H. King.

Gigantic Scheme
Progressing for Elevated Airport

Preparations of matter for a bill to obtain parliamentary powers to proceed with the construction of a gigantic scheme at King's Cross Station, London, whereby an airport will be fabricated out of steel and concrete, and aircraft will land on modern runways hundreds of feet up above the city streets, is going ahead rapidly, according to Captain C. W. Glover, consulting engineer for the Central Airports, Limited.

This engineer states: "Before many years have passed, possibly about 1938, Londoners will be able to watch giant air liners landing at a great elevated airport. We are now going ahead with my original design, which allows for four tracks (or runways) crossing in the middle."

What Today Means

"SAGITTARIUS"

If November 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 to 9 a.m., from 4 to 5 p.m., and from 10 to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and from 2 to 3:45 p.m.

You will be inclined to summarily dismiss advice that is given you on this date and you may have cause to regret it; turn an alert ear and keep an open mind. News from home may prove disturbing and will perhaps have to do with the ill health of a dear one. Children should be carefully guarded from possible accidents.

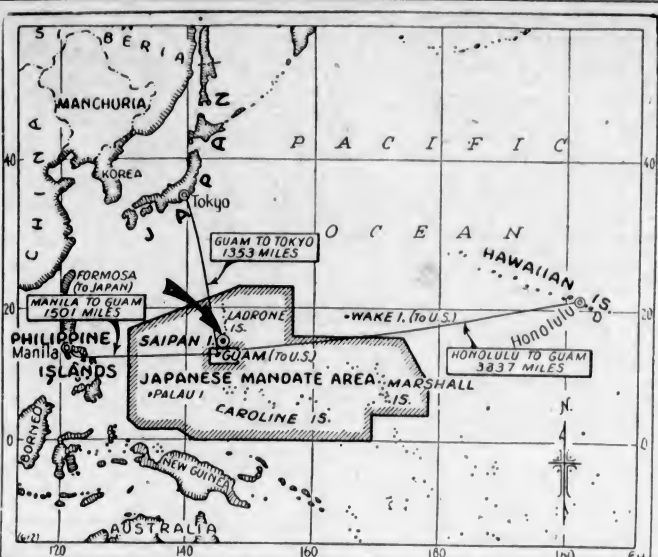

The child born on this November 28 will not get along well with others of its own age and will not be liked by them. It will want always to have its own way without any thought for the wants of others. Inclined to be selfish about lending its toys and will be most careless in the treatment of the possessions of others.

If November 28 is the date of your birth, it is possible that you will go through life doing everything wrong; you will always seem to be out of place with never a possibility of righting yourself. First of all, you will probably never find just exactly what you want to do for a living. If for some reason you should find yourself in a congenial line of work, you would let any number of unimportant things make you miserable and in turn you would prove upsetting to the others who were forced to work with you. As a child, you were probably clumsy and always the one to knock over the vase or leave the front gate open so that the animals escaped. People just naturally looked for you to do things wrong and you complied with their expectations. This you have never outgrown.

Born on November 28, you fall among that not too small group of people who "mean well." You are inclined to be lazy and as time goes on you will probably become a constant nagger and a perpetual crank. The best will not come out with you as you age, unless you strive hard to make it do so. You will be inclined to exaggerate and not disinclined to twist the truth to suit your own purposes. If you marry the right person who will love you sufficiently to make you over, you can be quite a successful and happy person. You can, yourself, better your condition of life and outgrow some of your weaknesses and faults of character if you go after yourself in the right way. Don't fuss and fume; do something about it.

"The house shook said the earthquake victim. 'Cups and saucers flew all over the place, and—'

"Great Scott!" exclaimed a little man in the corner. "That reminds me, I quite forgot to post my wife's letter."

ST. AIDAN'S TO
BE REOPENEDUnited Church at Mount
Tolmie Will Have Dedicatory
Services Tomorrow

REV. W. J. ARMITAGE

After several months of reconditioning and addition, St. Aidan's United Church, Mount Tolmie, is completed and will be officially reopened tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Miss Margaret Irvine.

The opening presages a week of worship in the renovated church, and an excellent programme has been arranged. A vestible, new Communion table and solid oak pulpit are several of the features to be seen inside the church. Outside windows have been secured, which add a touch of brilliance to the edifice.

The work has been largely of a community nature. Rev. H. J. Armitage, the pastor, assisted by a large troupe of assistants, has been mainly responsible for the renovated structure.

DEDICATORY PROGRAMME

Miss Irvine will unlock the outside door, while James Taylor will open the door of the new assembly hall. Rev. E. F. Church and Rev. Thomas Keyworth will conduct the dedicatory programme. Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry will lead in prayer, while Rev. Dr. J. K. Unsworth is to read the Scriptures.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson will be soloist as members of the First United Church choir sing the anthem. A special sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. David Christie.

Wednesday night another public worship service will be held, with Rev. W. J. Howard, Rev. W. R. Brown, Rev. S. Ryall, Dr. S. B. Osterhout and others taking part. George Guy, of Victoria West United Church Choir, will be soloist, and L. A. Young will offer cornet solos. Rev. H. J. Armitage will speak.

DEAN WILL SPEAK

Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, Very Rev. Cecil S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, will speak. Rev. W. R. Seeley, Rev. William Allan, and members of Wilkinson Road and Garden City United Churches will assist.

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson, pastor of First United Church, will be the principal speaker on Friday night. Rev. Hugh Nixon, Rev. G. B. Seeley, the William Allan, Ray United Church, with W. H. Ruffell, as soloist, will also be heard.

Other services have been arranged for Saturday and Sunday and will be announced later.

LODGED IN JAIL
OUT OF DANGERMan Guilty of Manslaughter
Moved Around to Avoid Lynching

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 27 (AP).—In a surprise move, authorities today rushed Anthony Serpa, convicted of manslaughter and for a time last night in danger of being lynched, here from San Francisco, took him before Judge R. R. Syer who sentenced him to one to ten years in San Quentin and hurried him off to the penitentiary.

Serpa, who was convicted of manslaughter for the slaying of Leonard Ramonda, ranch foreman, during an alleged poaching expedition, was taken to San Francisco last night for safekeeping after some members of the mob which lynched Thomas H. Thurmond and John M. Holmes, demanded Serpa, too.

"Let's make a clean sweep of this," one member of the mob cried. Officials managed to get Serpa out of his cell and a few minutes later he was with a deputy, mixing with the crowd. He was not recognized, and the deputy took him to San Francisco.

Husband and wife were touring the shops of the West End of London. Presently they stopped outside a display of hats in a shop window. "There you are," he said, pointing to an attractive style: "You should look like that. I'll suit you."

She shook her head. "But that style is not worn here," she replied. He pointed to another hat. "How about that one?" he asked.

"No; everybody is wearing that kind," she returned.

CREDIT WILL HELP RUSSIASir Arthur Steele-Maitland
Says Five-Year Plan Must Succeed Eventually

Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States will undoubtedly prove of great benefit to the former if they can get credits from the United States, in the opinion of Sir Arthur Steele-Maitland, former member of the British Cabinet, who arrived in the city on Sunday.

"I believe that Russia will succeed with her five-year plan eventually," said Sir Arthur, when interviewed at the Empress Hotel, although they have fallen a good deal short of what they originally set out to do.

Sir Arthur is well-informed on the subject of Soviet Russia, having spent a good deal of time in that country during the past year. He gave it as his opinion that the Russians had been a free people and not so completely subject to the rule of the secret police, known as the O.G.P.U., there would have been a change of government some time ago.

GREAT BRITAIN

Turning to the subject of Great Britain, Sir Arthur stated that recovery was under way in that country. The number of unemployed, he said, had decreased to three-quarters of its former total, and industry in general was showing a distinct improvement.

As Minister of Labor in the Baldwin Cabinet, from 1924 to 1929, Sir Arthur was in close contact with the administration of the "dole" and made it clear that contributory unemployment insurance and the "dole" were two entirely distinct things. They were both useful in their way, he said, and both were being retained in the Old Country.

OPERATION OF N.R.A.

Sir Arthur has come from the United States, where he has been engaged in an investigation of the operation of the N.R.A. for the Rockefeller Foundation, and stated that the success of this ambitious plan would depend, to a great extent, upon whether the agriculturists would co-operate with the industrial interests to the essential degree.

Tonight Sir Arthur will address a meeting, under the auspices of the National Council of Education, and at noon today a joint club luncheon of the Canadian and Kiwanis Clubs.

E. V. Finland, past district Gyro governor, in addressing the Gyro Club yesterday, gave some impressions of the international gathering of district governors held in Milwaukee a few weeks ago. He said that on his visit to the East he had met many who were present at the International convention that was held in Victoria in 1925. They had very kind memories of the city and of the local club members. In many instances they wished to be remembered to individual members of the local club whom they met at that time. It was acknowledged that the convention held here had never been excelled.

that while they had good surpluses in the bank they were unable to draw on their account owing to the financial conditions prevailing there. The financial situation had made it advisable to cancel the convention for the year, but there was a disposition on the part of the gathering of governors that an annual gathering should be held in future.

Calgary had been assigned the choice of the convention in 1934, but owing to the financial condition of affairs it had been intimated that it would not be prepared to bear the expense. There was a disposition among the governors to hold the opinion that the host club should not be called upon to bear as great a part of the extra expenses as had been the rule in the past. Mr. Finland spoke in praise of the reception that had been accorded Mrs. Finland and himself on their visits to various centres, including Chicago and Milwaukee.

A poker enthusiast asked a party of three to his house for an evening's play. When the guests had gone, the host was appropriately vicious, having lost a river.

As he was leaving the room, he noticed a silver teaspoon on the carpet. He picked it up and glowered at it.

"I wonder," he muttered, "which of them has a hole in his pocket!"

MAN MISSING; SEARCH MADE

City and Up-Island Police Co-operate in Hunt for Clarence E. Coulter

Police throughout the Greater Victoria area and Up-Island points have been asked to co-operate in a search for Clarence E. Coulter, of 1020 Johnson Street, who disappeared on November 10.

Mr. Coulter left the city about 10 o'clock Monday morning in a rented car, after telling his mother he was going to Chemainus for a day or two. Since then nothing has been heard from him, and the automobile was located a week ago today on a Nanaimo street.

It is possible that Mr. Coulter may have gone on to Vancouver, but as yet no information has been received to definitely indicate that he crossed to the Mainland.

Mr. Coulter is a young man of about twenty-seven years. He is five feet four inches tall, and has light brown hair, brushed back and rather thin on top. His eyes are of a hazel blue. He weighs about 135 pounds. When he left here he was wearing a brown suit, light soft hat and a blue overcoat.

COMPETITION IN NEED OF CURB

Railway Authority Says Public Ownership Would Not Be Success

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 (CP).—Not public ownership but regulation of competition appeared the solution of Canada's railway problem, Dr. W. W. Colpitts, distinguished Canadian-born consulting engineer in New York and recognized as a railroad authority in the United States, told the Canadian Club here today.

"I am amazed and saddened at the conditions that unbridled competition has brought about," said Dr. Colpitts.

"I am not one of those who believe competition in railway service should be entirely abolished, but you in Canada and we to a lesser extent in the United States have filled the stomach of the avaricious and wasteful competition to the point of bursting.

"I believe permanent government ownership and operation of railways is opposed to sound public policy. The desire for profit in a private enterprise, however small the prospect for profit may be, is a tremendous stimulus to economy and efficiency.

GOVERNMENT'S FUNCTION

"Since the doctrines of proper governmental railroad regulation are so well understood in Canada and since the railroads no longer hold a monopoly of transportation, I believe it has become the function of government to prevent unsound and wasteful competition between the C.N.R. and C.P.R. rather than to promote it."

If the Canadian National Railways had been constructively built and financed as the Canadian Pacific Railways, he said, there would be no railroad problem in Canada.

Sooner or later both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways must be set on more solid foundation, but he did not believe the present was an opportune time to formulate a permanent Canadian railroad policy.

MAIL BOX CASE IS CONCLUDED

Tony Rosin Pleads Guilty of Destroying Boxes, Freeing His Brother

Tony and Jean Rosin, arrested in the city on Sunday by Chief of Saanich Police Allan Rankin and Detective Pearson, appeared at a special session of the Saanich Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of destroying five mail boxes.

Tony Rosin pleaded guilty and took the entire blame, stating his brother Jean had nothing to do with the destroying of the mail boxes. He asked the court to charge his brother free. This was done and Tony Rosin was fined $10 and $10 damages, or in default one month's imprisonment.

The five mail boxes were destroyed at Royal Oak, but the accused was traced to the city by Chief Rankin.

Two of the men have already been secured. Jimmy Decker escaped after a passage of shots from police officers, when he jumped off his horse and fled into the bush. Hospital authorities expressed their gratitude for the wonderful response given to the appeal. Mrs. G. Italy Starts Two Cruisers

Ships Under Construction Will Greatly Increase Naval Efficiency

ROME, Nov. 27 (AP).—The construction of two new Italian cruisers, the Garibaldi and Duca degli Abruzzi, each of 7,500 tons, has started. It was learned today.

The keels were laid several weeks ago, but details were not announced then. The Garibaldi is being built at Brindisi, and the Duca degli Abruzzi at Leghorn.

Two destroyers of a total tonnage of 1,250 also are being constructed. Not having signed the London Treaty, Italy, like France, is free to construct as many cruisers as she wishes.

In addition to the Garibaldi and the Duca degli Abruzzi, Italy has under construction four light cruisers and one heavy cruiser and is completing six light and six heavy cruisers. These, it is thought, will give Italy one of the most efficient navies in the world in proportion to size.

SURELY COMING TO OLD STATUS

Government Giving Effect at Once to Suggestions Made in Report

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 27 (AP).—Newfoundland's return to her old status as a Crown Colony became virtually assured today, as the Government told the Legislature plans for "giving immediate effect" to the recommendations of the Royal Commission that investigated the Island Dominion's financial and economic position.

Sweeping changes in the country's Government structure held out the possibility of freedom from "unprecedented difficulties," the speech from the Throne said, and Prime Minister F. C. Alderdice, in announcing the Government's stand, declared the suspension of the Island's Constitution, and the substitution of government by commission to be "in the best interests of the country."

There was no debate on the proposals today. After hearing the speech from the Throne, the Legislature adjourned until tomorrow, when debate will begin. An amendment calling for a week's adjournment, proposed by the Opposition benches of the Lower House by F. G. Bradley, was defeated.

GUARDSMEN TO AID IN ARRESTS

Maryland Governor Sends Soldiers to Help Take Alleged Lynchers

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 28 (AP).—Proceeding under the orders of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, a provisional battalion of Maryland National Guardsmen, early today, left Baltimore for Somerset County to assist state policemen in the arrest of nine men, alleged to have taken part in last month's lynching of a negro at Princess Anne.

Governor Ritchie has not declared martial law in the county. At the State House in Annapolis, it was said the troops were called under the provisions of the Constitution, which gives the Governor power to use the National Guard to quell riots or enforce the law.

The greatest secrecy surrounded the mobilization of the soldiers. They actually were on the move, riding in nine large buses, before any one in authority would admit knowing anything about the plan. The Governor was sick in bed with a bad cold, and no one was allowed to see him.

The use of soldiers was the Governor's answer to the refusal of the State's Attorney John B. Robins, Somerset County, to have the nine alleged lynchings arrested. Robins took the position there should be no arrest until the grand jury of Somerset County had looked into the affidavits of state policemen, who named the nine as among those who stormed the jail and swept them aside.

The committee regrets being unable to promise their friends any more dances during the month of December, but plans to hold a function early in the New Year, when it is hoped all who have helped to make the Sea Scouts' dance so popular will continue to give their support and so enable a start to be made on the boys' headquarters for which the committee is working so hard.

Cantata to Be Sung at Centennial

The choir of Centennial Church, under the direction of J. W. Buckler, assisted by Mrs. Paul Green, at the piano, and John Frisk, at the organ, will present, for the first time in Victoria, on Tuesday, December 12, Henry Smart's dramatic cantata, "The Bride of Dunkerron," with Mrs. Arthur Dowell as the sea-maiden; Joseph Almond as sea-king, and George Farmer as Lord Dunkerron. Enamored of the sea-maiden, Lord Dunkerron seeks her for his bride. She has not the power to quit her element, and he follows her to her spirit home. The sea-maiden leaves him that she may obtain the sea-king's sanction to the union; but with the storm-spirits, has already doomed her to death for loving one of mortal birth, and she appears to her lover only to announce her fate. He, for his temerity, is driven from the spirit land, and cast back by the tempest to the shores of the upper world. The sea-spirits lament the loss of the maiden—the serfs the death of their master. This tradition—the scene of which is the ruined Castle of Dunkerron, on the Coast of Kerry—has been the subject of a ballad by Crofton Croker.

Doctor's Recipe For Centenarians

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 27 (AP).—Women, if you want to live to be 100, among other things, don't put anything on your face that you wouldn't put in your stomach. Such was the advice of Dr. Marie Charlotte de Gollere Devenport, born 100 years ago, he said, in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, Russia. The doctor, here on a lecture tour, gave the following formula for long life: "Never get angry; learn self control; develop agility; be quick and lithe; not musclebound; avoid excesses in all things; don't put anything on your face that you wouldn't put in your stomach; don't let your mind die."

To BUILD UP

Undernourished, Underweight "Teen-Age" BOYS & GIRLS give them the "VITAL 3"

To build rich, red blood, strong bones, sound teeth, sturdy muscles and good nerves, boys and girls of "teen" age require about twice as much calcium and one and a half times as much phosphorus each day does the average adult. Therefore, meals that furnish sufficient calcium and phosphorus for adults may fall short in supplying the needs of boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 16 years when they are emerging from boyhood into manhood, and from girlhood into womanhood, and should be growing nearly twice as fast as in the previous period.

Added to a regular diet, which should include at least a pint of milk daily, Fellows' Syrup will supply the extra quantity of calcium that these growing "teen-age" boys and girls need. It will also supply them with additional amounts of phosphorus and iron.

Fellows' Syrup not only provides them with the "Vital 3" (calcium, phosphorus and iron), but also with other tonics such as sodium, potassium and manganese. The combination is particularly valuable for undernourished and underweight "teen-age" boys and girls, because it stimulates youthful appetites and thereby builds weight, and increases sturdiness and strength.

Doctors have prescribed this safe, standard preparation for 60 years. Its use has spread to 62 countries. It is one of the most famous and respected of medical preparations. Drug stores everywhere have FELLOWS'—the "Vital 3" Syrup Compound of Hypophosphites.

THE VITAL 3

- 1—CALCIUM
Vital to the child's life and growth. Adequate supplies promote normal action of muscles and nerves and build strong bones and sound teeth. Too low a supply of calcium causes softened bones, decayed teeth, bowed legs, enlarged ankles and wrists, convulsive nervousness and irritable muscles.
- 2—PHOSPHORUS
An important constituent of all cells of the body, of the bones and glandular tissues. It stands first among all substances as a nerve food. Phosphorus is necessary in regulating and maintaining the neutrality of the blood and in sustaining its normal temperature. It is also needed for turning starchy foods (bread, potatoes, sugar) into energy.
- 3—IRON
Every cell of the body and every tiny red blood corpuscle needs a daily supply of iron otherwise weakness immediately results. If enough iron is not supplied every day the blood will take what it needs from the small reserve stores in the liver, spleen and bone marrow, thus weakening the entire body structure. Anemia and thin blood, in children and adults, simply mean insufficient iron in the system.

KAY FRANCIS IS DOMINION STAR

Plays Role of Physician in "Mary Stevens, M.D."—Added Attraction Is "Goodbye Again"

It's their first time together in pictures, but already they're being talked of as the new "team" on the Warner Brothers' lot.

Kay Francis and Lyle Talbot worked so well together in their most recent picture, "Mary Stevens, M.D.," which is now showing at the Dominion Theatre, that their home studio has planned several other pictures in which they are to play together in the near future.

Warren William and Joan Blondell are seen in "Goodbye Again," a clever comedy, which was very popular on Broadway. "Goodbye Again" marks the third picture in which Miss Blondell and William have appeared together. The first two being "Three on a Match" and "Gold Diggers of 1933."

CAPITOL The humorous adventures of a king who was the Bluebeard of kings because of his six wives, two of whom he had beheaded, is depicted humorously, it is said, in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," a United Artists release showing from today to Friday at the Capitol Theatre. Charles Laughton, who in less than two years and only six roles on the screen has risen to a peak which places him where he is discussed as "greater than Jennings," plays Henry VIII, King of England.

EMPIRE Eddie Cantor is now at the Empire Theatre in "The Kid From Spain," his latest musical comedy. This picture is part of a new policy adopted by the management for this week in which several old favorite films have been secured for presentation. The added attraction is "Rain," with Joan Crawford and Walter Huston.

COLUMBIA "Parole Girl," a Co-Theatre production, with Mae Clarke in the title role, will terminate its run tomorrow at the Columbia Theatre. Ralph Bellamy has the leading male role. This film play, which deals with the adventures of a young girl out on parole from a state penitentiary, has a cast including Hal Hamilton, Marie Prevost and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

Crowds at Fair Twenty Years Ago Thrilled — Pilot's Name Forgotten

HALIFAX, Nov. 27 (CP).—Gates have swung shut behind the Nova Scotia Exhibition of 1913 after a record season's attendance. The big crowd had a good time; there were plenty of attractions and lots of thrills. None, though, to compare with those of the 1913 exhibition which gave old Halifax its first glimpse of a real airplane in flight.

Posters had blazoned the feat for weeks in advance. But many of the crowd were still frankly doubtful as they crowded the race track enclosure after the horses had gone through their paces. It didn't seem possible that the flimsy crate standing in the tall grass could actually fly.

To the crowd, it was nothing more than a conglomeration of bamboo sticks covered with frail-looking linen and held together here and there with bits of wire. Below and in front of the motor, with its huge wooden propeller was what appeared to be an ordinary kitchen chair.

PILOT WAS CAREFUL

The pilot—his name is forgotten now—paced nervously back and forth before the grotesque machine, holding up a handkerchief, apparently to judge the wind's force and direction. After an hour of this, he hitched his visored cap around backwards, and got ready to start. Pilots were careful in those days; it didn't take much weather to write "finis" to an aviator's career.

With the wind to his satisfaction, the young pilot went ahead with starting the machine. Getting the big propeller turning over was a job in itself. After many minutes of swinging the stick by hand, one glimpse quail, exhausted. Another look showed that the air was really stirring the wings. In a few minutes more, the engine was roaring, and the pilot had climbed into his chair.

ANOTHER CLOSE CALL

It shot up again, however, clearing telephone wires narrowly. Again, it seemed to hesitate, and for a few moments gyrated dizzily as the daredevil flyer struggled for altitude. Then, up to the dizzy height of 1,500 feet.

To the crowd, it had seemed impossible he could get up there. And now the air was really stirring the wings. In a few minutes more, the engine was roaring, and the pilot had climbed into his chair.

Down it came swiftly, over the fence and to the ground with a series of great bumps that lifted it high into the air and rattled the earth without disaster seemed even more difficult. Women turned their faces and strong men gripped their seats as the plane began its spiral back to earth.

One very wet night, a man who had a spectacle stall in an open-air market had not had one customer. He was about to pack up when an old lady came for a pair. She tried on every kind he had without success. Then he stooped down to a box, and then put a pair on the old lady. "That suits me lovely," she said, and she took them. He had pushed the glasses out of the frame.

Jenny Wren Tells Who the Stranger Is

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The longer Peter Rabbit stared at the stranger in the Old Orchard the more he realized how mistaken he had been in thinking that he was dressed all in black. Now that Peter was so near he could see that the stranger was speckled all over with tiny light spots. Underneath he was dark brownish-grey. His wings and tail were the same color, with little touches of buff. His rather large bill was yellow.

Peter hurried back to Jenny Wren, and it must be confessed he looked sheepish. "You were right, Jenny Wren. He isn't black at all," confessed Peter.

"Of course I was right. I usually am," retorted Jenny. "He isn't black, he isn't even related to the Blackbird family, and he hasn't any business in this country, anyway. He's a foreigner. That's what he is, a foreigner."

"He is speckled like the Starling, and he isn't really an American at all," replied Jenny. "He comes from across the ocean the same as Bully the English Sparrow. Thank goodness he hasn't such a quarrelsome disposition as Bully. Just the same, the rest of us would be better satisfied if he were not here. He has taken possession of one of the old houses of Yellow Wing the Flicker, and that means one less house for birds who really belong here. If his family increases at the rate Bully's family does, I'm afraid some of us will be crowded out of the Old Orchard. Did you notice that yellow bill of his?"

Peter nodded. "I certainly did," said he. "I couldn't very well help noticing it."

"Well, there's a funny thing about that bill," replied Jenny. "In winter it turns almost black. Most of us wear a different colored suit in winter, but our bills remain the same."

"He seems to be pretty well fixed here, and I don't see but what the thing for the rest of you birds to do is to make the best of the matter," said Peter. "What I want to know is, whether or not he is of any use?"

"I guess he must be of some good," admitted Jenny Wren rather grudgingly. "I've seen him picking up worms and grubs, but he likes grain, and I have a suspicion that if his family becomes very numerous, and I suspect he will, they will eat more of Farmer Brown's grain than they will pay for by the worms and bugs they destroy. Hello! There's Dandee the Waxwing and his friends!"

SORRELL WELL IN FRONT OF SCORING RACE

Detroit Sharpshooter Heads American Section—Smith and Roche Tied

MONTREAL, Nov. 27 (CP).—Scoring honors in the National Hockey League will remain with Edith Sorrell, of Detroit, in particular, and the United States division of the league in general.

Sorrell leads the whole league with seven goals and two assists in eight games, better than an average will one point a game. Second position is shared by young Gordon Pettigrew, New York Rangers' gift to Detroit, and crafty Marty Barry, Boston Bruins' centre. Each has six points.

Best in the Canadian division, sharing fourth spot in the whole league with three others, are Hootie Smith, captain of Montreal Maroons, and Earle Roche, upon whom Ottawa Senators were reported asking waivers a short time back. They both have five points as have Aurie and Wiseman, of Detroit, and Joe Lamb, of Boston.

A feature of the scoring lists, second to be issued this season by Frank Calder, president of the league, is some of the names that appear far down.

MORENZA AWAY DOWN
Howie Morenza, Canadian speedster, has one little assist to his credit after eight games. Eddie Shore has a zero against his name, as have Trotter and Haynes, of Maroons.

Frank "King" Clancy, Toronto's great defenceman, leads the penalty parade with twenty minutes, followed by Albert Leduc, Ottawa, and Lionel Conacher, Chicago, with eighteen minutes each, and Jean Piusle, Rangers, and Harvey Jackson, Toronto, seventeen.

ALTOHAKS TO CARRY WEST'S GRID COLORS

Calgary Squad Are Named Champions—Final Game Is Delayed

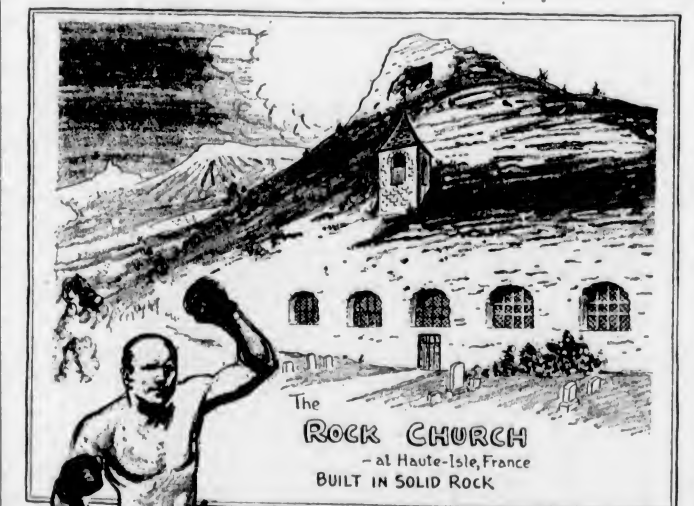

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27 (CP).—Calgary Altohaks were officially junior rugby champions of Western Canada tonight, but when they would be given an opportunity to win the Canadian title was deferred.

Announcements by M. I. Lieberman, president of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union, from Edmonton that the protest of the Winnipeg Deer Lodge had been rejected, paved the way for formal declaration of the Calgary team as champions. Deer Lodge was defeated by Altohaks at Calgary in the western final.

Four teams in Eastern Canada are still in the running for the eastern junior title. In Ontario are Hamilton Cubs, Sarnia, Cedonia and Toronto Argonauts, while the Quebec champions are Montreal Westwards. Eastern officials doubted if a champion could be declared within the next ten days.

Calgary's bid for the title game by offering $1,000 expenses and 50 per cent of the net gate receipts to the Easterners was under consideration of Bobby Hewittson, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union. The winning team, however, will have to be consulted before the championship game, whether in the East or West, is arranged.

CANADIAN CHAMPS TO DISPLAY WARES IN VARIOUS CITIES

Plans Completed for Journey Throughout Province During Christmas Holidays—Will Play in Vancouver, Kamloops, Kelowna, Penticton, Princeton and New Westminster

Victoria Blue Ribbons, monarchs of Canadian senior basketball circles, since their brilliant win over Windsor - Walkerville Alumni, Eastern champions, last May, at the Willows, will display their wares to interior fans during the Yuletide season, it was announced yesterday, by Manager Ernie Cook. The famous quintette will start off on a tour, December 29, and will return to the city on January 4. Ever since winning the Dominion laurels, the Ribbons have been occupying the limelight, and lovers of the game in other parts of the province are anxious to have them perform, and finally their wishes will be fulfilled, as all arrangements have been completed, and the full squad is expected to make the journey.

GAMES LISTED
On arriving on the Mainland, the champions will take on a Vancouver team on December 29. From there they will head off to the Interior, stopping at Kamloops for their next performance, on December 30. Kelowna will be their next stop, where they will play in the afternoon against the best squad available. That game will be on New Year's Day. The same evening the local players will drop in at Penticton, while January 2 will see them playing before a crowd at Princeton. Although not yet definite, the Ribbons expect to play in New Westminster Adanacs in the Royal City on January 3, and then head for home. Just what kind of opposition the Ribbons will receive from the Interior cities is not known, but they are expected to make a clean sweep of all their encounters. However one thing is certain, the fans in the various cities will get a glimpse at the finest aggregation of basketballers in the province, and one of the greatest quintettes ever to boast of holding the Dominion championship.

In big "Chuck" Chapman, the crowds will see the best guard on Canadian soil, a player who Windsor's team said won the title for the Ribbons here in that memorable series, which kept crowded galleries thrilled to the last second of the final fixture. Chapman slipped the team last season and is again at the helm this year. Ernie Cook is managing the boys, with Tommy Little, former guard, assisting him, while J. A. Barnwell is president of the club.

FULL SQUAD
From last year's championship quintette, the two Patrick boys, Lynn and Max, will be missing, both having left for the East during the early Fall. To fill their shoes, Manager Cook scooped around and picked up Albert "Red" Martin, George Robertson, Al Imrie and Doug Peden, a quartette of smart ball handlers. Working with Chuck Chapman on the back division on the tour will be Joe Ross, veteran guard, and Peden, while Art Chapman will look after the pivot position, with Robertson and Craig flanking him on the wings. Martin and Imrie will see action on the front line as well.

BADMINTON FINALS CARDED TOMORROW EVENING

Garrison Players To Meet in Finals On Armories Courts

Dunc Williams to Battle Ross Hocking for Men's Title, While Miss Florence Oates Will Defend Women's Crown Against Miss Doreen Swayne—First Matches Slated at 7:30

Shuttle champions of the Victoria Garrison Badminton Club for the year will be named tomorrow evening, on the courts at the Armories. Yesterday's play saw all final matches named and some brilliant matches are expected in the various events, and a large crowd will, no doubt, be on hand to see some of the city's best exponents of the popular indoor game battling for the championships. The first match will get under way at 7:30 o'clock with Dunc Williams facing Ross "Bud" Hocking in the men's singles. Following the last match, the cups, symbolic of the honors, and other pieces of silverware will be presented.

Miss Florence Oates will take the court with Miss Doreen Swayne in the women's final. The former is defending her crown and is expected to be hard pressed all the way by her younger net opponent. Miss Oates has played well since the tournament opened, winning her way to the last bracket by defeating Miss P. Charlewood in the semi in comparatively easy fashion, 11-1, 11-1, while Miss Swayne took the measure of Miss Kay Wilson, 15-12, 15-11. It should be an interesting match all the way.

IN FINE FORM

Hugo Rayment, the one-armed star of many a hectic battle, will team up with Hocking in the men's doubles final with Dunbar and Platt, the pair who sprung a big surprise the opening day by ousting Dunc Williams and his partner after a thrilling rally in the last two sets.

The two women finalists, Misses Oates and Swayne, will meet Miss Helen Nicholson and Miss M. ## TIGERS WIN FROM LIONS EASILY, 6-2

Calgary Squad Continue Undeclared Record in Northwest Hockey League

VANCOUVER, Nov. 27 (CP).—Lloyd Turner's Calgary Tigers continued their undefeated march at the head of the Northwestern Hockey League parade with a 6-2 win, tonight, over Vancouver Lions.

It was Calgary's third straight win of the season and Tigers' second triumph over the Lions.

The smooth working Calgary front line footed little difficulty in piercing the Lions' defense and only a great exhibition of goal-tending by Hardaker prevented a higher score.

Tigers counted the first goal in the initial period on a solo effort by Smoky Harris, who battled in his own rebound.

Harris and Blyth combined with the latter taking the pass to score Calgary's second goal early in the middle session.

Two quick goals by Savage and Houbregas on solo efforts, late in the period, gave Tigers a 4-0 lead.

Before the final period was half over, Foxy "Dutch" Gainer fed passes to Anderson and Harris for another pair of Calgary counters.

Mason and Greasy saved Lions from a shutout with goals in the last five minutes of play.

DEFENCE COLLAPSES
Tigers faced a much improved team from the one they handed a 3-1 defeat in the opening game here a week ago, but after the first pe-

Time after time Tiger marksmen slipped up to Lions' blue line, split the defence and eased through to Pepper Hardaker from all angles.

In the last period Manager Guy Patrick pulled Greasy off the defence and sent four forwards on the ice.

The strategy proved effective when Mason took Smith's pass in front of the Calgary net and beat McCusker.

Lions swarmed in the Calgary goal, but sterling work of McCusker robbed them of almost certain scores.

COUGARS WIN CLOSE GAME
Defeat Navy in City Cage League—Dealt Triumph—Lake Hill Girls Win

Mount Talmie Cougars, Dealt and Lake Hill girls took last night's City Basketball League fixtures in Centennial gymnasium. Although gathering only eleven points in the final half against the Navy's thirteen, the Cougars netted in all twenty-five points to out a win of 25-20, in the senior "C" men's division. Showing combination play that surpassed their opponents' efforts, the winners slipped in six baskets and collected two points on free throws, in the first half, to step into the lead, 14-7. Navy players got under way in the second, shooting five baskets and sinking three free throws.

In the intermediate "B" boys' section, Dealt's garnered thirteen baskets and one free-throw count in the opening stanza, to lead 27-8; but in the latter half failed to stop the scoring rampage of the Regents, which gave them thirty-two points. The Regents' rally, however, was not sufficient to overcome the lead of the Dealt's who carried away final honors, 48-40.

Gus Kallio Signs To Meet Thompson In Main Mat Bout

World's Champion to Grapple Bulgarian at Wil-lows, Saturday Night—Herb Parks to Clash With Bobby Byland in Semi-Windup—Dempsey to Handle Bouts

With Jack Dempsey, the most colorful heavyweight boxing champion of all time, the third man in the ring, Promoter Fred Richardson, of the Tuller Athletic Club, announced his wrestling card for Saturday evening at the Horseshow Building at the Willows yesterday and expects one of the biggest crowds since the sport was introduced here. The local matchmaker is making elaborate plans for the show, which will get under way at 8:30 o'clock. Instead of the usual time of 8:45, Gus Kallio, present holder of the world's welterweight championship, will grapple Cyclone Thompson, Bulgarian, in the eight ten-minute round main event, while Herbie Parks, Canadian titleholder, will take on Bobby Byland, Minneapolis, in the five eight-minute round semi-windup. Two local bouts will round out the card as preliminaries.

KNOW HERE
Three of the main wrestlers have shown here before and all are well liked by the fans for their fine sportsmanship and clean way of grappling. Cyclone Thompson will be making his initial appearance, and is reported to be one of the roughest and toughest matmen in the game. He is reported to be a ringman along the lines of Steve Neno, another tough Bulgarian, who showed here numerous times and was always rough on his opponents. Thompson is coming here with a fine list of victories behind him and is confident of giving the present champion a run for his money from the opening sound of the gong. Kallio is a sweet wrestler and always gives a clever exhibition. He is an expert on practically all the holds and will be favored to toss the Bulgarian before the finish.

The Parks-Byland bout should be a good appetizer for the main event. Both lads are well versed in the grunt and groin pastime. Promoter Richardson stated yesterday that he would probably announce his preliminaries today or tomorrow and will have the city's best men in the ring for the benefit of the fans.

ARRIVES EARLY
Dempsey will arrive in the city from Seattle early in the afternoon and a delegation of local officials will be at the dock to meet the former king of the heavyweights. It will be Dempsey's first visit to the city. While in the ring, the Manassa Mauler is in complete control of the situation. If the principals get anyway tough and refuse to obey, Dempsey usually lands a kayo, just to impress upon the wrestlers that he is the boss and nobody else.

and Miss Jones, 15-10, and beat Adderley and Miss Quayle, 15-9. L. Garner and Mrs. Garner beat Adderley and Miss Quayle, 15-12, and lost to Lumden and Miss Hanington, 5-15.

COUGARS WIN CLOSE GAME
Defeat Navy in City Cage League—Dealt Triumph—Lake Hill Girls Win

Mount Talmie Cougars, Dealt and Lake Hill girls took last night's City Basketball League fixtures in Centennial gymnasium. Although gathering only eleven points in the final half against the Navy's thirteen, the Cougars netted in all twenty-five points to out a win of 25-20, in the senior "C" men's division. Showing combination play that surpassed their opponents' efforts, the winners slipped in six baskets and collected two points on free throws, in the first half, to step into the lead, 14-7. Navy players got under way in the second, shooting five baskets and sinking three free throws.

In the intermediate "B" boys' section, Dealt's garnered thirteen baskets and one free-throw count in the opening stanza, to lead 27-8; but in the latter half failed to stop the scoring rampage of the Regents, which gave them thirty-two points. The Regents' rally, however, was not sufficient to overcome the lead of the Dealt's who carried away final honors, 48-40.

THE WORD "PEDIGREE"

We have a request for the origin of the word pedigree, for which we extend thanks for turning the light of research upon what develops to be a very colorful word.

The theory is advanced that we have the word from the French phrase, "par degrés"—by degrees—the connection being that a pedigree is a family record "by degrees."

More likely, however, is its derivation from the French "pié de grue"—"crane's foot." The crane's foot was the shape of the heraldic sign to indicate a genealogical tree—a pedigree.

The Coda—Each side lost more than half its number in killed and wounded.

The Pullback—Aw, yes! but they used guns.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT
By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

TIMING THE DEFENCE

In the proper timing of the defence against a no trump contract, it is most important that both players be alert to the necessity of preserving the entries which will free the suit they attempt to establish. Usually the no trump contract is a sound one, and the defending team requires two re-entries (or tempo) in addition to their advantage of the tempo implied in the opening lead. In these cases it is important that the second tempo shall fall to the player who holds the long cards of the established suit, and to this end it is important that both members of the defence make to make that entry the second one rather than the first which they must use. In less frequent cases it is up to the player holding the long suit alone to set the stage for a successful line of play, in order that the contract may be defeated. The following hand illustrates such a situation in an interesting way.

North, Dealer.

♠ K J 2	♥ A 9 2	♦ Q 10 8	♣ K 5
♠ 10 6 4 3	♥ 7 4	♦ 8 7 4 3	♣ A 8 5
♠ A 8 5	♥ K J 2	♦ A 9 2	♣ 10 8
♠ 10 6 4 3	♥ 7 4	♦ 8 7 4 3	♣ A 8 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT	Pass	1NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	3NT	Pass

West opened the seven of hearts, his highest card of the suit his partner had bid. Dummy played the ace, and East now made the play that furnished East and West with their opportunity for a successful defence. He ducked the trick and allowed South's knave of hearts to win.

South was now forced to guess which of the two outstanding aces

East held. If he could eliminate East's re-entry, the heart suit, though it might be set up, could never be run against him. If West could attain the lead, he could allow East to establish his suit while retaining the second ace as an entry to the king of hearts in this hand. South guessed wrong and led a club. West had no time to lose; he played the ace of clubs and immediately led his last heart. South now had no way of forestalling the loss of three heart tricks, in addition to the two aces he was forced to lose.

While there was still a chance for South to make his contract if East had refused to win the first heart trick, it is well to note that the play must use. In less frequent cases it is up to the player holding the long suit alone to set the stage for a successful line of play, in order that the contract may be defeated. The following hand illustrates such a situation in an interesting way.

UNEMPLOYED ARE BEING ABSORBED

City Relief List Shows Decrease for Third Successive Month This Fall

For the third successive month a decrease in the number of those on relief will be shown by the city when its November accounts are completed.

In October the decrease was 212 families compared with October of last year. This month the decrease is expected to be more than 160 families compared with November of 1932.

This steady decline in the number of those on relief is looked upon as an indication that a gradual absorption of the unemployed into private businesses is taking place.

If this decline in the relief list continues, the budget problem facing the council for 1934 should be materially lessened, it was stated.

By the way, Miss Marks, your ordered flowers, books and magazines sent to Mr. Eden's ship? "Yes, answered everything you told me to order, Mr. Field. "Very well."

"I'd advise your using Miss Pike this afternoon. She is very efficient. He had used her before at Miss Marks' recommendation."

Geoffrey reached the dock but a few minutes before the signal for sailing was given. He'd meant to get down before, he explained, but he'd had an unusually hard, full morning. Things had piled up—

"I'm afraid you hurried frightfully," Cletty said with an anxious look up at him.

"I never have enough time," he stated with nervous petulance.

"You could have," she said. "Everyone has the same amount of time given to him; he determines its quantity by his use of it."

"Don't, dear," he appealed miserably.

She laughed. "I won't," she promised—now. She slipped her arm through his and led him to her side, and then, leading him a bit apart from the group who surrounded Miss Ella, waving her hand, she spoke again: "I've been in our cabin. Your offerings are perfect, Geoff."

"I'm so glad you like them, dear," he answered tenderly.

"Geoff," she said in an undertone, "you'll never know how I love you."

"I'm—quite mad about you—I have loved you so long—or thought I had. Now I know that love was merely a preface. Will you think about me a great deal?"

"You're going to write me each day?"

"If you'll take time to read my letters," she whispered, her eyes downcast.

"Cletty!" he murmured reproachfully.

"I'm sorry, darling, and I will write, of course, each day. And truly, will you send me an ocean letter today, Geoff? I shall be—wanting you so—out there at sea."

"Pet," Miss Ella called. Blinded by the rise of emotion that came from kissing Cletty, deafened by it, he stood, staring stupidly at Cletty, the girl, and of the little house with a garden. And he didn't consider Miss Marks' attentions seriously until she began to "pick on little Miggs." Then the color of the matter changed, and Jimmy saw a vivid scarlet—red—clouds on the horizon. Miss Marks had intended; she had been with Mr. Field for years, and matters in the outer office went as she wanted them to go. Jimmy's eyes grew wider than they should have been, and little Miggs trembled when Miss Marks so much as glanced her way.

On the day of Cletty Eden's sailing, Miss Marks had that which women call a headache, when they are unwilling to acknowledge a headache. She had seen Jimmy, at the information he gave her, that Miggs girl's hand with his, to keep it covered.

After she had twice had to ask Geoffrey about an order he had given, he looked at her searchingly. "Feeling badly?" he asked, and a bit metallically. He paid for efficiency. He was always tried when he found he did not get that for which he paid.

"I have—a frightful headache," she confessed, and in a voice he had not known could be heard, a voice that quivered.

"Um," he murmured; he added, "too bad, suppose you run off this afternoon. Rest up. I can get someone in here from the outer office. By the way, Miss Marks, your ordered flowers, books and maga-

LOVE'S LOTTERY

by Katharine Haviland-Taylor

CHAPTER VIII

The world is a stage, of course, and few troupes can maintain the steady playing of light comedy. In Geoffrey's office a real drama was going on in which Miss Marks played the jealous woman, little Miggs, the role of heroine, and Jimmy Dugan the hero who loved the heroine.

And that drama influenced large audiences, in known; the voices of the players in Geoffrey's office had already reached Cletty Eden and their further, yet, unspoken lines were to make deepest indent in her. Jimmy Dugan was not concealed, but he knew what was the matter and why the frost-bitten Miss Marks was so "taking it out of" the girl the collective office called "Little Miggs." Early in Jimmy's day in the office of Geoffrey Field, Miss Marks had asked him to her apartment, where she had cooked very good dinners, prattling the while with a lightness that creaked from disuse of how pleasant it was to cook for two. She had over-emphasized the beauties of domesticity, and of how her dear, unspoken lines had depended so upon her, had always said that she was born to live for others and to make their comfort. And, as if to stiffen and to draw away.

Thereafter he was busy; but Miss Marks, who had been reared in the stern school of follow-up, was busy too; she was forever telling him that two tickets for this or that had been given her, and wondering whether he could—?

It took a solid three months to mute her wistful voice, and then she had only paused upon that ground where one is restless and where one waits. She could not believe that he would not "come to his senses," he'd never amount to anything without help, she felt. . . . She took pains to acquaint him with some of her securities.

She held a few shares in a real estate company, and she had a little money in the bank.

But it was not the variety of bait with which to lure Jimmy. He wasn't going to marry any woman for her bonds! And what decent man would be wondered. He was going to marry for love—if he had any luck with the girl he loved—to care for her. He dreamed a good deal of how he would care for her, and of the "little house with a garden." And he didn't consider Miss Marks' attentions seriously until she began to "pick on little Miggs." Then the color of the matter changed, and Jimmy saw a vivid scarlet—red—clouds on the horizon. Miss Marks had intended; she had been with Mr. Field for years, and matters in the outer office went as she wanted them to go. "I have—a frightful headache," she confessed, and in a voice he had not known could be heard, a voice that quivered.

"Um," he murmured; he added, "too bad, suppose you run off this afternoon. Rest up. I can get someone in here from the outer office. By the way, Miss Marks, your ordered flowers, books and magazines sent to Mr. Eden's ship? "Yes, answered everything you told me to order, Mr. Field. "Very well."

"I'd advise your using Miss Pike this afternoon. She is very efficient. He had used her before at Miss Marks' recommendation."

Geoffrey reached the dock but a few minutes before the signal for sailing was given. He'd meant to get down before, he explained, but he'd had an unusually hard, full morning. Things had piled up—

"I'm afraid you hurried frightfully," Cletty said with an anxious look up at him.

"I never have enough time," he stated with nervous petulance.

"You could have," she said. "Everyone has the same amount of time given to him; he determines its quantity by his use of it."

"Don't, dear," he appealed miserably.

She laughed. "I won't," she promised—now. She slipped her arm through his and led him to her side, and then, leading him a bit apart from the group who surrounded Miss Ella, waving her hand, she spoke again: "I've been in our cabin. Your offerings are perfect, Geoff."

"I'm so glad you like them, dear," he answered tenderly.

"Geoff," she said in an undertone, "you'll never know how I love you."

"I'm—quite mad about you—I have loved you so long—or thought I had. Now I know that love was merely a preface. Will you think about me a great deal?"

"You're going to write me each day?"

"If you'll take time to read my letters," she whispered, her eyes downcast.

"Cletty!" he murmured reproachfully.

"I'm sorry, darling, and I will write, of course, each day. And truly, will you send me an ocean letter today, Geoff? I shall be—wanting you so—out there at sea."

"Pet," Miss Ella called. Blinded by the rise of emotion that came from kissing Cletty, deafened by it, he stood, staring stupidly at Cletty, the girl, and of the little house with a garden. And he didn't consider Miss Marks' attentions seriously until she began to "pick on little Miggs." Then the color of the matter changed, and Jimmy saw a vivid scarlet—red—clouds on the horizon. Miss Marks had intended; she had been with Mr. Field for years, and matters in the outer office went as she wanted them to go. Jimmy's eyes grew wider than they should have been, and little Miggs trembled when Miss Marks so much as glanced her way.

On the day of Cletty Eden's sailing, Miss Marks had that which women call a headache, when they are unwilling to acknowledge a headache. She had seen Jimmy, at the information he gave her, that Miggs girl's hand with his, to keep it covered.

After she had twice had to ask Geoffrey about an order he had given, he looked at her searchingly. "Feeling badly?" he asked, and a bit metallically. He paid for efficiency. He was always tried when he found he did not get that for which he paid.
